

Two-Year Bible Reading Plan

Version 1.0.8

The Approach

This Bible-reading plan was developed with the following objectives in mind:

1. Read an appropriate number of chapters each day: don't read so much that missed days make it impossible to get back on track, and don't read so much that you have no time for meditation and application. On the other hand, read enough to see the passages in their context.
2. During a two-year period, read through the Old Testament (OT) once and the New Testament (NT) twice.
3. Daily read a passage from the OT plus a passage from either the NT or the Psalms.
4. Distribute the reading of the Gospels throughout the year. This approach offers variety and ensures a regular exposure to our Lord's teaching and ministry.
5. Distribute the reading of the Psalms throughout the two years. In addition to offering variety, this approach ensures a steady diet of praise, thanksgiving, and hungering after God, as expressed by the Psalmist.
6. Distribute the reading of the Proverbs over the course of two years, reading one chapter approximately every 23 days as part of the Old Testament readings.
7. Read Ecclesiastes and Song of Solomon after reading the history of Solomon's reign.
8. Read the prophets soon after reading the history during which they ministered.

Practical Suggestions

1. Consider covering one daily reading in the morning and the other in the evening, which allows greater opportunity for focused meditation on the passage just read.
2. When you encounter a passage that is difficult to understand, pray for God's help. Also consider other Bible-study helps to aid in your understanding.
3. Try to discover portraits of Christ in the pages of Scripture.
4. During prayer, talk to God about what you've just read. Examples:
 - If you read of God's power, faithfulness, etc., praise Him for that. If you read of His grace, thank Him for also showing you grace in your weakness and failings.
 - If you read commands or exhortations, ask God to help you obey through the presence of His Spirit.
 - If you read about a child of God who was bold or strong in faith, ask God to help you to follow that biblical example.
5. Parents can also use the plan as a basis for family worship. For example, Mom or Dad can read a passage personally in the morning, then, having meditated on the passage during the day, can present thoughts and/or questions to the family at supper.
6. If you miss a few days and don't have time to catch up, don't give up! Simply jump back into the schedule's readings for today and get back on track.
